John Barnes : The Beginnings of the Cinema In England, 1894-1901: Volume 1: 1894-1896 before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Beginnings of the Cinema In England, 1894-1901: Volume 1: 1894-1896:

Describing in detail one of the most inventive periods in the history of English cinema, the volumes in this celebrated series are already established as classics in their field. Each volume details the highlights of a single cinematic year, including details of production, manufacturers of equipment, dealers, and exhibitors. This is augmented by numerous carefully chosen illustrations and a comprehensive filmography of English films, fiction and nonfiction, for the year. Particular attention is also paid to the ways in which the cinema of other countries affected the English industry. Volumes 1 is edited and introduced by Richard Maltby and has a foreword by David Robinson.

Essential reading . . . a labour of love that will intrigue any cineaste.
