Joyce Nelson, Joyce Nelson : The Colonized Eye: Rethinking the Grierson Legend before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Colonized Eye: Rethinking the Grierson Legend:

John Grierson was a British documentary pioneer and founder and first director of the National Film Board of Canada.

Joyce Nelson explores another side of "the master:" his commitment to the expansion of multinationals and his imperialist stance towards Canada's filmmaking possibilities.

About the AuthorJoyce Nelson taught film/media studies at Queen's University in Kingston before becoming a full-time writer. She lives in British Columbia.
