Normally viruses can be narrowed down to a simple cause. Not this time. People are turning into an undead nightmare through animal attacks, as well as a result of drug overdoses. You can't stop it, if you don't know where it started. The military tried to contain it, but they weren't fast enough. They didn't realize with all their vast weaponry, and expertise, it would take them no time to get in over their heads. In no time an effort to stay strong, and beat an overwhelming evil, their fate turns to a struggle for survival. A struggle in which they were never trained nor prepared for. Undead humans are one thing, but when your pets, animals from the local zoo, and beasts of the wild return from the dead, the rules of survival are about to change.
