Available as CD too if you know where to look By Paul Lawrence OK, as part of the ever burgeoning series of Goon Shows made available by BBC Radio this here is volume 17. You can get it as a double cassette with one half hour show per side or as a double CD version with two shows slotted onto each disc. The episodes featured here are The Reason Why - not one of their finest moments IMHO; The Treasure in the Tower - ditto IMHO; The Plasticine Man - a great episode with all sorts of cultural throwback comedic moments and very much a British style of humour and finally The Silent Bugler - another great episode full of spoofs of the spy trade and a number of nicely realised comedic moments. For The Plasticine Man and The Silent Bugler this is a good buy for fans of this 50's/60's franchise of British radio comedy. General comedy fans should approach with caution unless your pretty sure of what you are getting.

Volume 17 of the "Goon Show" series features the following episodes: "The Reason Why", "The Treasure in the Tower", "The Plasticene Men" and "The Silent Bugler", recorded in 1957-8.

About the Author Spike Milligan was perhaps best known as one of the Goons. He went on to become one of Britain's foremost comic writers and performers. His bestselling titles include Adolf Hitler: My Part in His Downfall, Puckoon, and Where have all the Bullets Gone? He died in 2002. Larry Stephens was a scriptwriter who wrote for several popular comedy shows in the 1950s, including The Tony Hancock Show and The Army Game. He is probably best known as co-writer of many Goon Show episodes, along with Spike Milligan. He died in 1959.
