Spike Milligan, Larry Stephens : The Goon Show: Volume 26: Bank Statement No. 349 before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Goon Show: Volume 26: Bank Statement No. 349:

The Goons ruled the airwaves in the 1950s and became the most celebrated and influential clowns in radio history. Stand by for more comedy anarchy featuring Neddie Seagoon, Eccles, Grytpype-Thynne, Moriarty, Bluebottle, and Major Bloodnok. In The Lost Year (13th December 1955), the year 1956 is missing. Can Seagoon track it down in time? The Great Bank of England Robbery (20th October 1958) sees Fingers Secombe attempting to commit the greatest crime of the 20th century but hes stuck in a pillar box. In The Siege of Fort Night (27th December 1958), Fort Night is under siege and can only survive for another 14 days. Can Henry Crun, inventor, save the day? (This version was originally recorded in 1958 and first broadcast in the UK in 1986.) And in The Chinese Legs (7th January 1960), if Ned of Wales isnt Welsh, what is his real nationality? Can his legs really be Chinese? 2 CDs. 1 hr 55 mins.

About the Author Spike Milligan was perhaps best known as one of the Goons. He went on to become one of Britain's foremost comic writers and performers. His bestselling titles include Adolf Hitler: My Part in His Downfall, Puckoon, and Where have all the Bullets Gone? He died in 2002. Larry Stephens was a scriptwriter who wrote for several popular comedy shows in the 1950s, including The Tony Hancock Show and The Army Game. He is probably best known as co-writer of many Goon Show episodes, along with Spike Milligan. He died in 1959.
