Douglas Adams : The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy: Secondary Phase (Original BBC Radio Series) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy: Secondary Phase (Original BBC Radio Series):

The BBC Radio full cast dramatization! -- Stranded on Prehistoric Earth since the end of the first series, Arthur and Ford are once again trying to hitch their way off the planet. Zaphod, meanwhile, finds his visit to the offices of the Guide rudely interrupted by Frogstar fighters, who further threaten to feed him to the Total Perspective Vortex. Could this prove fatal for his ego? With the three reunited, Arthur's preoccupation with tea soon gets them all into hot water before they fetch up on the planet Brontitall. There they find an enormous guano-encrusted statue of Arthur, and an indigenous species in something of a flap. As a woeful story of economic collapse at the hands of the shoe shop industry unfolds, Arthur meets Lintilla -- for whom fate has in store a very unhappy marriage -- and Marvin gets to be a hero once again. All this culminates in a meeting with the Man in the Shack who apparently runs the Universe. These original BBC Radio episodes star Simon Jones, Geoffrey McGivern, Mark Wing-Davey, Susan Sheridan and a full supporting cast.
